

GENERATION GAP

Mac - your generation gap is showing. So many people are very tired and very fed up with JAC being on campus. I've heard complaints about the wet-behind-the-ears ex-high school students who are a drug-taking group of hippies who just aren't happy with anything. There are some points I can agree with such as wondering what will happen to those who get to university on the strength of automatic C's in English and Humanity subjects. I also wonder what kind of teaching a teacher is capable of doing if he knows that the "fifty-signatures-and-you're-out" policy is in force. However, is the almighty degree really that important?

The JAC programme is oriented towards educating the student - the complete student. So maybe it takes the student longer to find out what he wants to do for a career. Meanwhile he can try innumerable other activities which will be of value in the future. Mac students have a definite career goal in mind. Their spare time is occupied with organizing and attending activities. In contrast the JAC student will perhaps find what his career is, but will be much better prepared for handling the new life style coming. Today large companies are putting in three and four day work weeks, leaving man more and more time to do his own bidding. JAC students will be better equipped to handle this leisure time than Mac grads who have spent many hours organizing Fall Fairs, Royals and Carnivals.

There is one defect in the JAC system. These kids aren't satisfied with things Mac offers such as the C.C. agreement. Why? They are not used to having to pay out of their own pockets and equally not used to arguing Council for money and then managing on a low budget. If a group of JAC students can produce a budget the money is made available to them. Things come too easily to these kids. I strongly object to this.

B.B.

Bar Beefs

Everyone from John O. Public through to Students' Council is busy discussing the operation of the Bar-Disco. Council summed up the complaints this way.

1. Dissatisfaction of the staff re wages.
2. The limitation of 60 guests has caused hassles and complaints.
3. Waiters and waitresses are having a hard time with tremendous number of patrons.
4. Bartenders and attendants feel it is too crowded.
5. Post Grads feel it is a student service.
6. Supervisor should help attendant when necessary.
7. Post Grads feel the prices are too high.

Let's look at each of these complaints and see if they are justified.

Salaries in any food service operation are poor at best. Full time employees working a 40 hour week can generally expect to make $1.50 an hour. However Bar-Disco jobs are only parttime and the average salary is $1.60. Compared to the hard cold world the staff is doing O.K.

The patrons are upset about the guest limitations. Why 60? Easy - the first number one thinks of is 50 (Labatt's). But considering today's spiralling inflation the committee opted for 60. The staff finds the Bar too crowded but the patrons want more people in there.

That elite section of the Clan (P.G.'s) are unhappy with current Bar prices. Why don't the P.G.'s try drinking somewhere else for a change? They'd soon change their tune.

People are also complaining about all the "profits" the Bar is making. Have you checked the figures lately? After taking out all the operating expenses involved in running the Bar from July to the end of September, the Bar is left with an average of $30.00 "profit" per night with which to pay back the $6,600 debt still owed the Reserve Fund for the original construction.

Everyone is angry with everyone else. The staff is complaining about the patrons; the patrons, the staff; the patrons, the committee; the staff, the committee; and the staff, the staff. If it's causing that much pain then let's close the Bar permanently and put everyone out of their misery.

HOCKEY TO DATE

Coach Murray's squad of pucksters opened the season with impressive victories over S.G.W.U. and U. de Q. de M. by scores of 3 to 2 and 6 to 5 respectively. The scores were not indicative of the play, however, as Mac-Jac dominated the play outshooting S. G.W.U. 50 to 27 and U. de Q.M. by 38 to 20.

The star of the Sir George game was defenceman John MacDonald who was busy breaking up rushes all night and twice cleared pucks from the creases that appeared to be going into the net. Goals were scored by Chuck Taylor, Walter Anderson and Peter Baldwin. It must be added that if not for the spectacular net-minding of the S.G.W.U. goal tender the Taylor-Mosdell-Mackay line could easily have scored eight goals themselves. Against U. de Q.M. Mackay got a hat trick while the second line made a good showing with Gord Shipley getting two goals and Ken Stewart one. At this stage Mac-Jac seemed to be flying, but then came this weekend's disaster with Chicoutimi.

The Clansmen were trounced 6 to 0 and 10 to 2 by Chicoutimi, a team which is not nearly as good as the scores would indicate. The two goals were scored by Mackay and Mosdell. Mac-Jac outit the opposition and wasn't outshot by all that much (36 to 20 and 33 to 26) but was very noticeably weak in a few departments. Heading the way were silly penalties, especially by "hot dog" McDowell who took 7 penalties on the two games (Chicoutimi scored on 5 of these). As if this were not enough "hot dog" was mesmerized by his own takes and allowed 2 more goals while on the ice. Anyway he acted his way onto the bench by the third period of the Saturday's game. Bob Shaw's return will put McDowell's position on the team in jeopardy unless he settles down to the type of hockey he can play. Lack of experience in nets certainly hurt the team over the weekend but with a few more games under their belts and the long practices of Coach Murray, I'm sure the two goalies will be able to provide adequate goal tending. One bright spot was the inspired play of John Watson. Although he didn't play good positional play he was hitting everything in sight and will no doubt make Shipley's line a very potent trio.

Coach Murray has done a good job with the players and the team has improved immensely over last year's god-awful effort. Chuck Taylor is playing even better this year than last (many credit this to all that stick work he's been doing in his room this year) and its no coincidence that his line-mates are also off to a good start. Peter Mackay, who has one of the most unusual bonus clauses in all of hockey, may find himself drained before the season is over if he scores too many hat tricks (do blonds really score more). Doug Mosdell completes the trio and is one of the hardest workers on the team. Other forwards who have been playing well include Gord Shipley, Ian Smythe, and Ken Stewart.

In the defence lies the greatest area of improvement on the team. John MacDonald, Ron Titus, Wayne Brandt and Walter Anderson (no. 12 tells me that Bolo gets up for the games by thinking about long car rides, awful strange?) have all been playing excellent hockey. The amount of goals scored on the team so far is not really a true indication of the way they have played. All in all the team seems to be in good shape for the season ahead.

There were good crowds for both weekend games and it is hoped that the fans will continue to turn out to watch the exciting high-scoring brand of hockey that the Clansmen will be playing this season.

Mac Screwed

MacDonald students are getting the royal run-around from the McGill accountant. McGill has insisted that Mac bookstore ran at a deficit last year and the Mac students had better cough up the $4,800 into the McGill coffers. However, since McGill has been a little slow in delivering the profits of the last two years (which total $13,000) McGill will forward a cheque for $8,200 and call the score even. That sounds fairly straight forward until one examines the book-keeping.

To start with, the cost of obsolete books was written off in one year despite the fact that the bookstore manager wanted this done over a period of years. The books involved are education books no longer required by Ed. students and out of print. The publisher won't take them, the Ed. faculty won't take them, so the Agrs. get stuck with the cost. Fair?

There is also a great mystery surrounding the bookkeeping at McGill. According to our bookstore manager, Mrs. MacFarlane, our bookstore broke even at least. One obvious deviation from our figures is that McGill stated sales at $74,212.00 while our figures show $78,064.98 as the total sales. Letters have been written to Mr. Kierenoff of McGill who maintains that we owe the $4,800. However, there is no reply yet.

QUESTIONS BY BRUCE PETRIE

Question - When you refer to some place, something, or someone as "being cool", what actually do you mean?

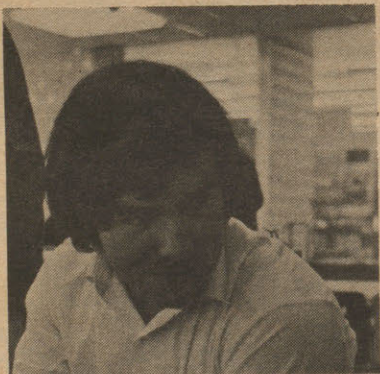

Gaeten Duplessis, Agr II - Cool is a word you use when you want to express feeling. For example it could be a pleasant feeling toward something or somebody. I think the word is highly overused and should die. It's had it's peak.

Belly Button - Navel Reserves - It's really sharp, different, or impressive. Probably he or she looks good and is nice to talk to. They are different in their own way. It's enjoyable. An atmosphere can be cool.

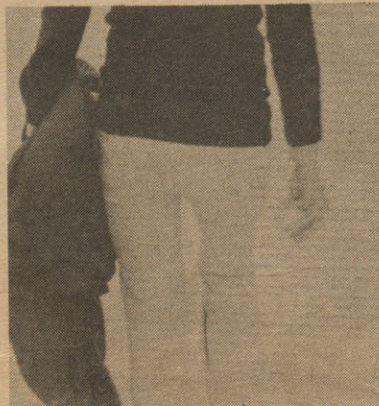

Debbie Gobeil, Agr II - When a person is cool he looks good, and is a nice guy. When a place is cool, it's fun to go to. Things are great. You can enjoy things and people. That's cool.

Bruce McLean, Jac I - It's just a little word to say you like something. When you say something's cool, it can describe anything. As long as you know what it means, it doesn't matter.

Harry Younie, Mac V - It's different, obviously impressive. It can be used sarcastically, like when somebody does something stupid, you say that's really cool. Sarcastically of course. It's a pretty flexible word.

- At the risk of making an ass of myself or appearing cheeky, this picture is like living. It can be cool if you're really into it.

Thanks

Editor,

With Fall Royal '71 business nearly cleared, many of its active people will have felt a slight relief.

To our staff advisor, Prof. G.O. Henneberry, the Fall Royal committee and its many sub-committees, I thank them publicly for their time and effort put into a job that has received many compliments from many sources. It was by their excellent work, planning and guidance our program was able to merit its compliments.

At this time, by saying thanks to our committee, I wish the incoming committee every bit of encouragement and success for their Fall Royal '72. It is the immeasurable experience and enjoyment gained by organizing and participating in such activities that truly make them worthwhile.

Bar-Disco

Editor:

The Student's Society at Macdonald College has decided to raise the Bar-Disco membership to $2.00 this year. Why? Last year the rate was $1.00. During the summer months, the Bar was always crowded - more so since the drinking age was lowered. It is our understanding that the Bar grossed between $6.00 and $8.00 a night during the summer. This is not peanuts, you know.

We refuse to accept the fact that the Bar-Disco is failing.

There is no reason for the membership "hike". The Bar-Disco is not meant to pay for the cost of the Centennial Center by itself. Furthermore, there are more students or campus using the facilities - which does require a membership; not to mention the fact that they drink as well. The hike, in our opinion, is unjustified. It offers an easy way out for the Students' Council to correct their poor management of our money.

Gentlemen, we feel a financial statement regarding the Bar-Disco's income and expenditure should be published immediately.

COUNCIL CORNER

For two Monday nights Council straggled (again) into the Council meeting to tackle the miscellaneous problems of the Mac campus. Did you realize that the sixteen dollar Health Service Fee we've been paying has been obsolete for two years but no one bothered to inform the powers that be who collect it? Needless to say there is an investigation being held.

It was passed unanimously in Council that the library be requested to increase the hours of operation. The following recommendations were made:

Monday - Friday
8:30 am - 12:00 pm
Saturday
9:00 am - 5:00 pm
Sunday
2:00 am - 12:00 pm

These recommendations were made as Council members felt that the library should be run as a student service and it should be available when it is needed even if only one student wants to use the facilities.

Council discussed at length the problem of what to do with the profits from the bookstore operation. Previously all the profits went into the Student Council budget to be allocated to activities. As of Monday November 15th, Council agreed that 100% of the profits go into the C.C. budget to offset the cost of operation of the building.

The last reportable topic on the agenda was a rehash of Council's poor image on campus. Several members insinuated that Council Corner wasn't a fair representation of the activities of Council members, including the daily problems handled. Council was asked on three separate occasions to submit columns or letters to "The Dram" on Council activities. At the last and final asking the Internal V.P. summed up the discussion by saying that the present system was satisfactory.

Let's look at what Council members do during the week. Mr. Suddard and Mr. Stewart can usually be found in the C.C. when not in class. They are busy keeping an eye on budgets, Robber's Roost, broken C.C. doors, planning conferences, signing cheques, trying to convince people to check I.D.'s on the C.C. door and all the other mundane details besides sitting on several other committees. Mr. Lalonde is occupied in writing letters, sitting on other committees, redecorating the Disco and commuting to McGill. Mr. Van Horne is involved with getting the Daily to Mac and the Senate meetings. But what pray tell are Ardeth, Mary, Al, Jennifer and George doing? Only the first three people mentioned in this paragraph are ever seen in the Council offices helping to solve daily problems other than during Council meetings. There it is Council - a summary of your other activities. Happy Al?

As was stated that's the last reportable topic as the JAC-MAC situation was discussed in confidential session. If you wish to see the minutes show your I.D. to Mrs. V. and demand a peek, or better still come to Council meeting yourself.

B.B.

Editorial

Sure the C.C. offer to the JAC students is the same as Mac students get. But for the Mac Clan who pay out the fifteen dollars in the total 525 dollars it doesn't hurt as much. However, JAC students have had desk attendant and bar jobs opened to them so they can work towards a C.C. card. So far only two JAC students have asked for work. Only two nights' work is needed to get a C.C. card. Is that so much effort?

There are rumours around that JAC is not happy with the C.C. agreement. They want more representation on C.C., Snack Bar, and Bar-Disco Committees. They want 50-50 representation at least and don't understand why Mac students choke over the thought of JAC students being chairman of the committees. That's easy. Most Mac students have seen too many minor activities botched by first and second year Mac students because they simply haven't had time to learn the ropes on the minor details. What would a JAC student do who doesn't even meet the people in daily activities that he must get to know? Why should JAC have a majority vote when they are only tenants.

That's right, I said tenants. Mac agreed to rent JAC space. Note: that is "renting" complete with lease! Mac students offered not to rent our C.C. but to offer JAC the same financial agreement the Mac Clan adheres to, and added on membership to C.C. committees responsible for operation. The idea was to get JAC advice on necessary temporary readjustments but Mac still has to maintain the building long after JAC's lease with Mac is up.

Look out JAC - you are hitting your head against a brick wall. Take time to check the system and you'll see you can't win. So relax, be happy and aim for a compromise. Sorry, but you can't stage a takeover.

Basketball:

Tight defence almost proved fatal for girls basketball team. A week ago Thursday (Nov. 18) Mac-Jac travelled to Loyola to play. The Jac team kept a small lead throughout, until the end. The Loyola team held a tight defence and many times our girls were caught in their end, especially during the third quarter. After battling it out, Mac-Jac finished on top — the score 46-36. Once again Carole Keyes was high scorer with 14 points.

Last Thursday the senior girls basketball team defeated S.G.W.U. to keep their winning streak unbroken. The competition was good at some points and coaches Symth and Kelly played their full 12 member team. Using the press for most of the game worked effectively as the final score was 63-34. High scorer? That's right — Carole Keyes, though a fine performance was also turned in by Eady Sudgen.

Volleyball:

Last Saturday the Mac-Jac Volleyball team went to McGill for a six game tournament. Although the girls played well they were inexperienced compared to the other teams (especially those on the spikes). Keep practicing girls and soon you'll be champs!

Intramurals:

In case you haven't heard, the big splash is over and the third floor West End came out victorious, swimming over 1,700 lengths of the pool. Credit goes to captain Dianne Coulombe who made sure her team was in there. Congratulations Lorraine and Ann, you were a great asset to your team. Nice try Anna; too bad there weren't more people from your floor to help out.

Volleyball is still underway support your team!

In case some of you are wondering why I missed yet another weeks' article, it is because I didn't feel it right to spoil you children with my words of wisdom on a regular basis. After all, as you must all have realized by now, not only am I witty and intelligent, but am also handsome and athletic and I posssss a most wonderful personality. But my best quality is that I'm a very humble person even though I am a genius. Now on to what I'm best at... slinging putrified shit.

Our scouts have reported that there has definitely been a fall off in sexual activity at Mac lately. However our congratulations are extended to the JACK students for such singular and untiring endeavors to prove this wrong.

Is it true that since Juicy lucie joined the WOMENS' basketball team she has been drooling... ehh, ah sorry, I mean dribbling over Hunter Christ... Speaking of Hunter Christ, (as everybody does these days) it seems odd to me that a MAN of his stature would spend so many sleepless nights making posters to advertise his availability and capability. You and Scaser sure have a lot in common, Mr. Christ.

Martin Sils eats funny.

Statistics Canada has recently published a report stating that the top one percent of sexually active males achieve early baldness. Right Scaser!! Right, SHEP??????

With the end of another football season, we regret to inform you of the passing away of our dearly beloved ex-football star, hustler, lover, and general pain in the ass, Throb Bompson... That's what you get for betting on the Alouettes, Throb.

Cam BIG is a shitty scorekeeper. Fast, Cam. What's six and nine. WRONG again. It's 69.

Martha Cummings and Goings has nice cheeks. Le Bidette's FEATURE attractions this week centers on our listing of the top eleven girls on campus. This survey was based solely on SEX appeal. To hurt feelings, they are NOT listed alphabetically. Fold-outs in living colour to follow if the demand is sufficient. 1) Pat A.; 2) Lucie de B.; 3) Monique B. (eat your heart out, Timothy); 4) Martha C.; 5) Cathy D.; 6) Sally N.; 7) Joanne P.; 8) Mary Sue R.; 9) Karen S.; 10) Margo S.; and 11) We're still looking.

It is our candid opinion that the second year class are a bunch of fukking idiots!! And the fourth year crew aren't much better either.

Duncan Brooke is FALLing down, FALLing down, FALLing down!!

Ian Kirkpatrick is still trying to find out how FatherNature manages to produce so much white stuff on the ground. Try asking Nancy, Ian.

Congratulations LITTLE frankie Bled IT. It appears that B & G have finally given up

Allan Burland and GOOD old G.T. HILL.

By the way, it seems that popular opinion has it that Sherry Wallace and/or (maybe even together) CARROT are the writers of LE BIDETTE. We would hate to break up such a beautiful romance between these two BEAUTIFUL people, BUT, WRONG AGAIN, Folks!! Besides, Wayne still hasn't progressed further than comic books yet.

It is a PROVEN fact that JACK Guild scores more often in the Bar-Disco than he does on the basketball court.

There was a young BOY named JONES, Who was made of magnificent BONES, Amidst a round of applause, He pulled down his drawers, And showed Royal, Flesh-coloured TONES.

Ahhhhhh!! That's better. ...Condolences are extended to all those beautiful and unfortunate girls, JACK girls basically, who have not yet met us.

If you are in fact one of these girls and would sincerely like to meet me, don't hesitate. Write to Le Bidette, c/o The Dram, and enclose one full length colour snapshot of yourself and ALSO in 47 words or less, explain why you would like to meet me.

That's all for this article, fans, but don't despair, we'll be back in the New Year. In the meantime, keep those cards and letters coming folks. We still don't read them, but its nice to know that some of you will still take the time to write a few words to a drity old man.

FROM ALL OF YOU, TO ALL OF US, ...A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

MAC-JAC Basketball

On November 17th the Mac-Jac Clansmen were overpowered by the Loyola College Warriors 77 - 54. The Clansmen payed their worst first half ever and Loyola showed no mercy as they netted 45 points to our feeble sixteen.

In the second half the Clansmen fared much better and actually outscored the Warriors 38-32. Peter Kelly played his best game to date pulling his share of rebounds against the much taller Warriors. Ken Smyth also played a brilliant game as he led the offense, scoring twenty points.

On Friday the Clansmen played host to the Sir George Williams Georgians. As predicted the game was a close one featuring excellent basketball by both teams. The game see-sawed back and forth and at the end of the first half the Georgians led 45 - 41.

The Clansmen came back strong in the second half and quickly took a ten point lead. The Georgians however fought back to close the gap and with only minutes to go the game was still a toss-up. Finally Jim Guild, a standout throughout the entire game went to the foul line twice in the last minute of play and gave the Clansmen a 5 point lead. Final score Clansmen 95, Sir George 90.

Jim played his best game of the season scoring thirty-two points and Ken Smith, forever a standout, popped in eighteen points. Dave Algar also turned in his best effort of the year as he scored eighteen points. Barry Russel and Chris Hunter played an excellent game on the backboards and also managed to score twelve and ten points respectively. The Clansmen played an excellent game last Friday and will be in much better shape for their anxiously awaited rematch against Laval. Prediction: The Clansmen by 15 points.
